Grant Indicates his Opposition to the Chinese Bill.

TELLER'S NOMINATION TO BE SENT IN MONDAY NEXT.

Secretary Frelinghuysen's Haste Destroys the Effect of Prescott's Instructions.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

NEW YORK, March 30.—Graphic's Washington correspondent says: Gen. Grant, when asked his opinion of the Chinese bill said, if he had been in congress he thought he should not have voted for the bill in its present form. If he were president he did not know whether he should veto it or not. He thought the bill was objectionable in its present shape. He was not in favor of Chinese coming to this country, but he thought the difficulty could be met by a better way than by legislation here. He thought the Chinese government should be allowed to control the matter and keep people at home. He expressed the opinion that they would do it if we would let them. The Chinese did not want to emigrate except in case of some who had been here and desired to return. No Chinaman with this exception ever came to this country willingly. He was of opinion that it could be arranged by treaty, that Chinese should stop emigration of their own accord. It is understood that the president has not yet made up his mind whether he will sign or veto the bill, and will reserve judgment on the subject until after Friday's cabinet meeting, which he can do within the ten days which may elapse by law between the passage and veto or approval of the bill. The time will expire next Tuesday, so that probably Monday he will send a veto message or approval with recommendation for its amendment. It is not currently believed that he will sign the bill at all he will give his unqualified approval.

The Chinese Minister's Plans.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—A special to the Cleveland Express says: The American secretary of the Chinese legation denies that the Chinese minister has threatened in the event of the Chinese bill becoming a law to break off friendly relations with this government. The Chinese minister has not intimated to any official what action, if any, his government will take, for he does not know himself. It is known that he regards 20 years as excessive. He intended to leave here in a month or two for Spain, to which government he has been directed to establish diplomatic relations. The president stated to-day that he had not yet determined what action he should take in the matter, but expects to reach a conclusion at the cabinet meeting Friday.

Republican Members Advise the President.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—The president did not say what he would do in the matter, and it was evident that he had not yet fully and finally made up his mind whether he could approve of the twenty days' suspension. Page and Jones, while disapproving the argument that the treaty had created so powerful an impression on him, came away nevertheless very hopeful that he will sign the bill. Secretary Frelinghuysen and Secretary Teller called and left, both of whom were non-committal, but the opinion of cabinet officers gave them no additional information. The president and the whole they took occasion with much confidence to the result of the cabinet conference on the subject to-morrow. Senator Miller had a conversation with the president yesterday and subsequently wrote him a strong letter urging the signing of the treaty and urgent solicitation against approving the bill. He also is confident that it will be signed.

What Davis would do if he could.

It is said that Vice President Davis remarked to a friend to-day that he thought the bill he unlawful in violation of the treaty, and that he would not sign a document in vetoing if he were president.

Frelinghuysen's Untimely Haste.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—The Post contains the statement that Mr. Prescott's dismission—that his mission to China has been practically ended by the premature publication of instructions—has caused a profound sensation in political and diplomatic circles here. It is thought that Secretary Frelinghuysen's letter of the date of March 8th to Chili will not materially change terms of peace which Mr. Frelinghuysen has sanctioned to be hand and exemplified. Mr. Prescott received the publication of the instructions in the form of a confidential telegram from him made it impossible to secure modification from Chili. Minister Trescott, entirely familiar with the Peruvian controversy, and who takes a great deal of interest in South American affairs, declares the instructions could not be made public against the minister's consent, and repeated protests of Blaine that the president would not be made public, and he afterwards yielded to Frelinghuysen's demand for their publication, that Blaine told the president that premature publication would lead to the failure of the negotiations, and made a last request before leaving was that communications to him or from him should not be made public until after his return from South America. Secretary Frelinghuysen complained to Frelinghuysen for violation of the understanding under which he set out upon his mission. It is highly probable that the whole subject will now be investigated by the home committee on foreign affairs.

Secretary Kirkwood's Position.

NEW YORK, March 30.—To the Sun's Washington correspondent Kirkwood's friends say that in showing the president his letter to the Governor of Minnesota, Logan asked Wilson and Telleg replied that he had not yet determined what action he should take in the matter, but expects to reach a conclusion at the cabinet meeting Friday.

Frelinghuysen's Untimely Haste.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—The Post contains the statement, made on authority of ex-Collector Cornell, of New York, as being received with feelings of astonishment and incredulity in Washington, according to a Tribune special. It is said Gen. Blaine has determined to adopt the suggestion, and will shortly enter the field as a member of the Congregational church. It is said that Blaine has been advised by Henry Ward Beecher, whose views evidently run in that line, and who takes a great deal of interest in South American affairs, declare the instructions could not be made public against the minister's consent, and repeated protests of Blaine that the president would not be made public, and he afterwards yielded to Frelinghuysen's demand for their publication, that Blaine told the president that premature publication would lead to the failure of the negotiations, and made a last request before leaving was that communications to him or from him should not be made public until after his return from South America. CITY.

HOW THE CONVENTION'S LEAK WAS STOPPED.—The San Francisco Bulletin of recent date says: After the steamship Columbia was run on the mud flats near Mission Rock, she was found to be leaking badly from a jagged hole in her side, which was afterward ascertained to be about eighteen inches long and five inches wide. It was necessary to plug the leak temporarily to enable the cargo to be discharged and keep the vessel afloat while in transit to her dry dock. Harbor Commissioner W. A. Paul, Esq., who is quite a mechanical and inventive turn of mind, being in the vicinity, proposed an ingenious device for stopping the leak, which, when applied, proved quite successful. Although the bow of the vessel was deep in the mud the stern was free, and under the keel at this point a rope was passed and gradually worked forward until it was thought to be in the vicinity of the leak. A large tarpaulin, with stay lines at the corners to keep it well spread, was then attached to one end of the rope and hauled under the vessel, until it was thought that the hole was well covered. Here it was left lying half in place by the force of the water. The water was then pumped out, and the inside of the vessel being cleared so that a great credit for the scheme were able to operate on the leak from the inside. A small boy was placed over the hole and ordered firmly to push bottom, as another large one enough to admit a man's hand having been left in the top of the box. Through this hole the boy was quickly provided with tallowed oakum, and a plate covered over the aperture in such a manner that the greater the water pressure the more firmly the oakum would become packed and the leak secured. The vessel was then made tight and the cargo easily unloaded. Fifty sacks of potatoes was the only portion of the cargo in any way damaged.

UNFORTUNATE ACCIDENT.—The second false alarm of fire turned in from box 8 yesterday morning about 4 o'clock was the cause of an unfortunate accident to one of the horses of No. 3's. They had scarcely become settled from their first run at 3 o'clock when the second alarm came in, and no sooner were the rigs fastened and the driver in his seat than they started on the "jump." A man threw the doors open so violently that one of them rebounded in time to be caught by the rear wheel of the engine. The sudden obstruction threw the tongue around so suddenly that, with the strain upon it the horses were exerting, it snapped in the center. The horses then became unmanageable for a short time, during which one of them got over the tongue and tore a ragged hole in his thigh. In the trouble Tom Mountain, the driver, was rather badly used up, but luckily escaped serious injury. The horse is pair fully but not seriously hurt, and it is hoped will soon be well, as he with his mate makes a team hard to excel for the class of work at which they are put. The boys have put the hand engines in the engine, and will turn out as promptly as usual.

DRUNKEN IN DANGER.—An Englishman by the name of Plunket became intoxicated and furious while coming over the mountains into Union on the O. L. & O. stage line last Wednesday. He took poison at the Pelican station, with the apparent intention of first killing a well known drummer by the name of L. P. Eisenbach, with whom he had had some unpleasantness, and then realizing in the arms of death. Just before the stage stopped he was observed to swallow something which had the appearance of arsenic, and while at the station he took from his valise a large Colt's navy six-shooter and made an assault on Eisenbach. Ed. Ackerman, the popular traveler for Walter Bros., hurried to the scene and the madman was disarmed. The parties again boarded the stage, but had not gone more than a mile when Plunket was taken deathly sick with all the symptoms of poison. He was taken to a house near by and treated to some raw eggs, a can of lard and about four gallons of milk, which undoubtedly saved his life. Plunket remained at Sumpter and was en route to England to see his mother. He had now at La Grande for repairs.

NEW LODGES.—Martha Washington Circle No. 1, Daughters of Liberty, has lately been instituted in this city. This circle is a side degree of the order known as the Patriotic Sons of America. The circle starts out under the most favorable circumstances, having a charter membership of 49. A large number of applications for membership have since been received. The circle will convene next Monday evening, April 3, at Good Templars' Hall, corner of Third and Alder streets, when permanent arrangements will be made regarding the time and place it is to regularly convene. Following are the officers installed for the remainder of the present term: Presidents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Robinson; vice presidents, Mrs. Dr. Thompson and Dr. H. C. Coles; past presidents, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Bonney; chaplain, W. H. Ellis; conductress, Mr. and Mrs. A. Kitterman; recorder, J. F. Smalley; financial recorder, J. C. Roberts; inner guard, Miss Terry; outer guard, C. Beal; treasurer, Geo. Abbott.

SHOOTING AFFRAY.—Douglas Jones, sawyer in the North Pacific Manufacturing Company's establishment, was badly hurt while at work yesterday morning about 9 o'clock. He was tending a saw immediately under an iron pulley, about three feet in diameter and weighing 500 pounds, which was in very rapid motion. The pulley flew to pieces, either on account of its rapid motion or flaws which were afterwards found in it—probably the latter—sending parts of it in all directions. One sharp, jagged piece struck Jones on the head while another piece somewhat smaller struck his chest. He was taken to his home on N street between Thirteenth and Fourteenth, where a physician dressed his wounds. Jones will probably be confined to his bed for some time, but luckily received no dangerous wounds.

ROBBED WHILE DRUNK.—About 9 o'clock yesterday morning Jack Oliver, a laborer, while in a state of intoxication, was robbed of about $30 by George Howard, Harry Wheeler and Benny White, alias Big Hank. Oliver said after becoming somewhat sober, that Emmet, White and Wheeler had thrown him down in the yard back of the United States brewery as cool and had taken everything he had upon him. White and Emmet were arrested a few minutes after the occurrence, while Wheeler, who was not known to have had a hand in the matter until Oliver became sober, was not arrested until evening. The prisoners had Oliver's knife, hat, pipe and several other small articles belonging to him in their possession when arrested. The money has not yet been recovered.

CASUALTY OF THE HIGH SEAS.—Dennis Sullivan, mate of the ship Ivy, was arraigned in the United States district court yesterday, charged with cruelty on the high seas by beating Archibald Nichol, a sailor. He entered a plea of not guilty. The four witnesses brought here Wednesday night and lodged in the county jail, testified directly against him. The case was not so aggravated as it might be, but Sullivan was found guilty and sentenced to pay a fine of $100, or serve ten months in the county jail. The fine was paid. The mate and witnesses leave for Astoria this morning, where they will rejoin their ship.

A VALUABLE MAP.—H. W. and T. H. Ogilbe, civil engineers and surveyors of this city, have just completed a correct map of Multnomah county, showing the subdivision of the townships into sections and the sections into claims. It also shows all county roads, railroads operated, projected and in course of construction, streams, public buildings, etc. It will be placed in the hands of the lithographers, and in three weeks will be ready for distribution.

LODGED IN JAIL.—Lee Tong, a Chinese gambler, was yesterday tried in Justice Petrain's court for assault and battery, said to have been committed on Lee Ging, who, when swearing out a warrant for Tong's arrest, showed a bloody face and head as justification for his so doing. The defendant was found guilty and fined $10. He declined to pay the fine, and in consequence was put under the tender care of genial Jailer McManus.

WOMEN'S EMPLOYMENT OFFICE.—The Women's Christian Temperance Union have established a cheap intelligence office for women and girls, in charge of Mrs. Crump in the McKinnel block, 228½ Second street, between Main and Salmon. Those desiring employment and those wishing help will please call and leave their addresses.

TO PLEAD NOT GUILTY.—J. Stephens and C. O. Price, the men from Alaska charged with smuggling liquor into the Indian country and selling liquor to Indians, were yesterday arraigned in the United States district court and transferred to the United States circuit court for trial. The parties plead not guilty.

REPUBLICAN COUNTY CONVENTION.—The central committee has called the county convention to select delegates to the state convention and to nominate a full legislative and county ticket, for Saturday, April 15th. Primaries will be held Wednesday, April 12th.

THE STEAMERS.—The State crossed out at eight o'clock yesterday morning. When the Astoria office closed, at eight last night, the Willamette had been sighted. The Shubrick, coming in, was telephoned for her, and telegraphed as the Willamette at 1:30 P. M.

THE CUSTOMARY PUNISHMENT.—Wm. H. Davis was yesterday arraigned in the U. S. district court, on a charge of selling whisky to Indians. He pleaded guilty, and was fined $10 or 30 days in jail. The fine was paid.

MEMORIAL EXERCISES.—This afternoon appropriate exercises will be held at the high school in memory of Henry Wadsworth Longfellow. An interesting programme has been prepared for the occasion.

DWELLINGS IN DEMAND.—There is a great demand for houses at a rental of from $18 to $30. No less than twenty persons yesterday applied for a house (rental $20) just vacated.

ALLEGED BRUTAL TREATMENT.

Mrs. Brown, a Colored Woman Accused of Beating a Six-year-old Child Both Sides of the Story.

An item which appeared in the OREGONIAN'S local columns last Saturday under the heading "A Born Liar," may have done injustice to an innocent girl, scarcely old enough to understand clearly the difference between truth and untruth. The facts were obtained from the police authorities, who evidently were well informed as to the child's character. Through the efforts of Mr. W. T. Shanahan, secretary of the Oregon Humane Society, the girl has been placed in the Home. The society, and several ladies who took an interest in the matter, have taken considerably exercised over the alleged cruel treatment, and Mrs. Brown, the child's step mother, is threatened with prosecution. Yesterday a reporter of this paper investigated the case and both sides are presented below.

The child, Alice Adams, is six and one-half years old, a mulatto, and is extraordinarily bright and intelligent. Five years ago, the county court gave her into the keeping of Eli Brown, a colored man, who earns a livelihood by gambling, and she has been cared for by Brown's wife. Neither Mr. nor Mrs. Brown are blood relatives of the child.

Mr. Shanahan, basing his information on the statements of two persons who reside in the third story of Strowbridge's block, and of the child herself, charges that Mrs. Brown habitually beats the child in a brutal manner, and had her clothes torn off properly and often imprisons her. For these offenses, Mr. Shanahan, on behalf the Humane Society, will prosecute Mrs. Brown and leave no stone unturned to secure a conviction. Proof of brutality is offered by a very severe wound over the left eye and other bruises upon the face, and by abrasions on the nose almost the chin, as if made by scratching and pinching. Friday evening last, the child came to the residence of Mrs. Pike, corner Ninth and E. Her head over her face from the wound above described and related a most pitiful story of her cruelties at home. Mrs. Pike with a lady neighbor, took the child to the Home, obtained from the officers of the Relief Society a permit for her installation, and left her in charge of the matron, Mrs. Wood. The following day Brown left his grandson, ordered her released and given into the care of Mrs. Brown. When the latter made her appearance at the Home, the child trembled violently and refused to go into her presence, saying that she knew she would be beaten to death. The child was finally carried into the reception room by the cook, but appealed for protection all the while. It is said that Mrs. Brown looked as if she wanted to get her hands on the child and tear her limb from limb. Mr. Shanahan preferred two charges against Mrs. Brown in Justice Davis' court, which will be heard in a few days. Wednesday Brown legally transferred the guardianship of the child to Mr. Shanahan, who placed her in the Home, where she is now, free from intimidation and as contented and happy as could be expected under the circumstances. To THE OREGONIAN'S representative, who called yesterday, the child repeated in unequivocal language the story of brutality above related.

THE OTHER SIDE.

With these facts in his possession the reporter call ed on Mrs. Brown at her rooms in Strowbridge's block. She is a chamber maid, seemingly good natured and kind hearted. When asked for a defense to the charges, she laughed heartily and explained that Alice was the greatest liar that ever lived, and for the last six months would run off whenever she got the chance, and tell the most heartrending stories of mistreatment, just for the sake of telling them. After a big supper she would slip down stairs to some neighboring restaurant, say that she had not had a mouthful for two days, and would eat a generized meal. She was always ready to eat, no matter how full her stomach was.

"How about the bruises on her face and neck?" asked the reporter.

"She fell down stairs Friday while I was gone," said the woman. "Mrs. Kincaid and daughter who live on the floor beneath her fell, and ran to pick her up. They thought she was dead, but she run off down stairs and went to Mrs. Pike's. Alice told me that she got her neck scratched playing with a dog out her door. I can prove that she hurt herself by half a dozen persons, and if I hear Mr. Shanahan say I struck the child I will make him prove it."

Mrs. Brown does not deny that she has often punished the child, but she indignantly repels the accusation of cruelty. A woman who lives across the hall from Mrs. Brown, said to the reporter that Alice was a very bad child, and could not be believed under any circumstances. Mrs. Brown's closing words to the interviewer were:

"Now, you just mark my words. I jes' give dat chile one week out dere at de Home. She'll run off, and she'll tell worse stories about dem people than she's done told about me."

It may be well enough to say that the police, who have on several occasions been called on to find the child after she had run off, confirm what Mrs. Brown said concerning her want of veracity.

THE CANADIAN PACIFIC.

Probability of the Line being Changed to the Columbia, Rivals—What this Change will do for Portland and Celebrity Valley.

Active work in the survey for the final location of the Canadian Pacific railway through the Rocky mountains and the ranges of British Columbia, to commence with the opening of spring. Major A. B. Rogers, in charge of the surveys between Fort Calgarry, east of the Rockies, and Kamloops, a point on the way from Winnipeg to Victoria, leaving left that place March 14th. On reaching the head of the rivers he will pass through this city and go by the Northern Pacific to Puget Sound, and thence by the Sound. A portion of last year's survey will be run, entering at Fort Calgarry, and will locate engineer in the Rockies this summer. C. E. Perry and party, now on the South Saskatchewan, will be transferred to Major Rogers in the spring, and a third party will be dispatched from Winnipeg via Bismarck, at an early date.

It is about decided to adopt the Mackenzie or Columbian river route, which will cross the mountains about 100 miles north of the boundary line, instead of the more northerly route heretofore agreed upon. The Mackenzie will cross the Columbia in two places at the great bend, and it is this which makes it a matter of commercial importance to Portland and Washington here. Carry for a branch of the Canadian road over the N. P. R. R. supplies for the working parties in the mountains can be most easily and cheaply supplied. It will also open a market for the produce of the Columbia valley, one of the most productive in eastern Washington, which is now so distant by the distance from the railroad, and the almost impassable roads which prevent its exportation from Priest's rapids to Kettle Falls. At these falls, or more strictly speaking, at Little Dalles, those obstructions end, and for 300 miles northward to the heart of British Columbia, steamboats can run at any stage of water, reaching the line of the road at both its crossings.

The country is now being mountaineers and heavily timbered, supplies for the working parties must be brought from a distance, and the Colville valley being in range of the Columbia, is the nearest source of supply. The valley is about 70 miles long and 4 or four miles wide, and is one of the finest settlements of the Hudson Bay Co. It is exceedingly productive of fruit and grain, and would soon become the granary of a few hundred enterprising American farmers to take the place of the old time half-breed occupants, to make it a rich settlement.

W. SCHEFFLER'S PURE WINES AND BRANDY.

It is universally conceded that Wm. Scheffler's St. Helena (Cal.) Sherry, Port, Amber, Riesling and Claret wines, as also his vacuum distilled pure Grape Brandy are really superior to other manufactures, not excepting that imported, the adulterations and impurities of which is now generally understood. Mr. Scheffler's goods are popularly known all over the Pacific coast. Eight-tenths of all the druggists in California, Oregon and Washington territory have adopted his goods, discarding the imported. Ask your druggist here in Portland, East Portland, or in any town in this northwest, and you will be quite sure to obtain it, as you will at most of the first-class hotels and bars. Mr. Scheffler's Wines and Sauterne Brandy have been steadily growing into favor until they are known well to almost every household as a medicine, if not otherwise. Mr. Scheffler's process of distilling in a vacuum is his own patent process, which leaves his brandy of the fusil oil, making it really pure, sanitary and healthful.

The Daily Oregonian.

FRIDAY MORNING, MARCH 31, 1882.

KISSED HIS MOTHER.

She sat on the porch in the sunshine,
As I went down the street;
A woman whose hair was silver,
But whose face was blossom-sweet.
Making me think of a garden
Where, in spite of the frost and snow
Of bleak November weather,
Late, fragrant lilies blow.

I heard a footstep behind me,
And the sound of merry laugh,
And I knew the heart it came from
Would be like a comforting staff
In the time and the hour of trouble,
Hopeful and brave and strong,
One of the hearts to lean on
When we think that things go wrong.

I met it at the click of the gate-latch,
And met his manly look;
A face like his gives me pleasure,
Like the pages of a pleasant book.
It told of a steadfast purpose,
Of a brave and daring will—
A face with a promise in it
That God grant the years fulfill.

He went up the pathway singing,
I saw the woman's eyes
Grow bright with a wordless welcome,
As sunshine warms the skies.
"Back again, sweet mother,"
He cried and gently kissed
The loving face that was lifted
For what some mothers miss.

That boy will do to depend on,
I hold that this is true—
That boy who honors his mother
Our bravest heroes grew.
Earth's greatest hearts have been loving hearts
Since time and earth began!
And the boy who kissed his mother
Is every inch a man!

A HUNTER'S YARN.

Treed by a Grizzly Bear—A Warning against Wearing Buckskin Pants.

From a series of papers contributed to the Chicago Field, by T. S. Van Dyne, of California, entitled, "Behind the Log and Gun," we select the following yarn, as being one of the best bear stories extant:

"Now," said Melville, "before we turn in, let's have another smoke, and one of your very best yarns."

"I don't know no yarns and never could tell nothing but the truth, nohow."

Who can tell a yarn when asked to directly?

So thought Melville, and resolved on another plan. So after a few minutes talk, he said:

"You've been in California, haven't you?"

"Yes, a while."

"Ever seen any grizzlies there?"

"A few of 'em."

"Ever kill any?"

"Well, I amused quite a bunch of 'em."

"How are they to kill, pretty hard?"

"Yes, tol'ble."

"I have heard they are dangerous. Is that so?"

"Well, I come to that conclusion once, and sin't had no chance to alter it yet. I was a-ridin' around the edge of the chaparral one evenin' after venison, up in the mountains, and fuss' thing I know'd I see the most naprigitous old pot wolloper of a grizzly a-comin' along an old bridle trail right for me. I sopped out of there lively and got behind a big rock. I pulled a dead wood onto his harbor, but I just as I was goin' to shoot he smelt where I'd been. 'Whoof!' he went, and turned his head around. I was a little nervous and unhitched at him instead of waiting for a better chance. I heard the bullet sing in the air and know'd it had grinned on his top-knot, and in a second he came for me just a-bilin'. I had one of these yere pill dispensaries, and began shellin' out lead with it right lively, and give him seven doses afore he got to me. When he got close enough he give one wipe with one of his front meat-rakes, and the critters went in a flyin' one way and I the tother way; on my legs, though, for you can bet I didn't wait for him to shake hands. I was pretty lively in the hocks them days, and the way I busted down hill for a live oak tree was a caution to snakes. He came after me a rollin', tumblin' and a-wolapin' along so fast that I had to dodge an' let 'im go past. He ketched himself, though, and come a pacin' up that hill faster'n any pacin' hoss you ever see. But I dodged 'im agin, started for a tree and slipped round it just as he come down hill after me agin. This time, though, was just about seven feet from the ground, and I made a jump and ketched it out about eight feet from the trunk with both hands, and had just swung up and ketched it with my feet when the old singer arrive'd underneath.

"I was young in them days, and 'fo many another loon, thought buckskin pants was an in'spensible part of a reg'lar hunter. They were the meanest things I ever wore, except for real cold weather. One day they was too hot; the next day a drizzlin' under my feet with the wet, and as soon as they was dry they was a foot too short and scrapin', and scratchin', and rattlin' round my knee-pans like shriveled-up stove-pipes. Howsomever, I read about 'em in books and thought they was smart as' fine an' would wear 'em; but they come nigh doin' the death of me that time."

"How so?"

"Well, you see just as I was a-goin' to hist my carcase over onto the limb, the cuss made a grab an' anchored one claw right square into the seat of them breeches. An ordinary pair of breeches would a tore, you know, and let him down; but them infernal buckskins was so strong they come near lettin' me down. I know'd it was all up, and was tryin' to get the hang of one of them store prayers what they keep in books for shipwrecks and all kinds o' accidents but couldn't make none o' 'em that I ever heard fit my case. It was all right, for all at once the waist button of them breeches busted and the rest all followed like a row of bricks. That broke my foothold loose from the limb and as my legs swung down I gave a lively kick and a shake, and the pants was on the ground before he could get his claws loosed from 'em. I swung up on to the limb and in a minute was up in the top branches."

"By that time it was pretty dark, but I could just see him and hear him plain, a-tearin' and chawin' them pants. When he had got tired of that he sot down to sit me out. There came a little flurry of snow then, and after that it got cleat, and awful cold, but there he sat. I sot an' sot, an' tried to keep warm a-rubbin' my drumsticks, an' all the time it kept gittin' colder and colder, and must a gone several hundred points below the mercury. The wind blowed so hard I didn't have to blow my chin meadow agin' for a month, and that's what makes so many bare patches in it now; took the grass right out by the roots and freze up the holes. Gospel fact—you needn't laugh. When I got to camp and got a drink of that Highland I couldn't swaller it. It friz solid as soon as it touched my tongue.

"I should think you would have kept warm swearing."

"Sworin'? No, sir, not by a —— sight. I never swear. I was pious brought up. My old dad was a methin' man and 3rd boss of a way up Sunday-school back in York, and worn the irridishil square-toed number long I ever experienced. No, sir, I never swear."

"Well, I couldn't tell you all the sufferin' of that night. I've thought ever since there was a great mistake made in the gittin' up of hell. Heat ain't nothin' to stand; but perch a rich sinner up in a tree like that on such a night without his breeches, and afore he got half way up he'd squawk fur Lazarus to fetch him a red-hot brimstone cocktail.

"Mornin' come at last, after about two years waitin', and there lay the bear at the foot of the tree dead, with a skein of buckskin strings all around him. The camp was well supplied with moccasin strings for the rest of the winter. But what do you think I found out when I got down?"

"What?"

"Why, the snow from that little flurry I told you come just about dark laid all over him, an showed he was dead then, an' I'd sot up garret pollishin' my toes all night for nothin."

"Then you must surely have sworn a little."

"Well, while I'm at it I spose I might as well tell the hull truth. You see I had several tons of crosswords bottled up inside that I had always choked down out of respect for them square toes I told you about; but now they bust ont all in a heap. You've heard of Echo canyon, ain't you?"

"Yes."

"Well, that was the place, an' that's how it got its name; an' I—I'm a leetle ashamed to tell it, but since I'm tellin' you the truth I might as well tell you the whole truth while I'm at it—a geology party that was out there last year reported that some of them cuss words is echoing there yet."

"Marked for life by the ravages of Scrofula, Salt Rheum, Rheumatism," &c., can be prevented by using King of the Blood. See advertisement.

Ayer's Hair Vigor, as its name implies, invigorates and strengthens the hair. It not only restores the original color to gray and faded hair, but by its stimulating action at the roots, produces a vigorous growth, and gives it that beautiful lustre which results only from a strong, healthy growth of the hair.

DECISION IN U. S. DISTRICT COURT BY JUDGE DEADY.

U. S. District Court—District of Oregon.

THURSDAY, March 30, 1882.

THE CITY OF SALEM—Charles Nelson et al. libellants, No. 1181.

(1). LIEN OF MATERIAL-MAN. The lien upon a vessel given by the law of Oregon to a sub-contractor is in addition to the personal responsibility of the contractor or employer, and takes effect upon the performance of the contract or operation of law, unless waived by an express agreement to that effect, or some affirmative act from which such agreement can be reasonably inferred.

(2). WAIVER OF LIEN. The libellant, a carpenter employed by the master of the vessel, testified that when he went to work upon the vessel he trusted his employer, the contractor, to pay him; that in the course of a month or two he had done before, and did not think of claiming a lien upon the vessel until after the contractor had failed. Held, That this fact was not to be regarded as equal to waiving the lien, nor was it even any evidence of such an agreement.

BEADY, J.

This suit is brought to enforce a lien given by the local law for wages accrued by the libellants while working on the steamboat City of Salem, in the employ of the contractor, to make repairs to the iron in her house-pipe. It was before the court in March, 1881, on an application for the answer of the respondent, which it was held that the libellants had a lien upon the boat for their wages, unless they had agreed to waive it, and this, although at the time they may not have contemplated, or purposely intended to claim a lien therefor.

The cause is now submitted on the libel, the answer and answer and the evidence.

The only defense made to the libellant's claim of a lien is that they worked on the boat in pursuance of an agreement with the contractor by which they were to look to him exclusively for their pay and would not claim any lien therefor.

There is not a particle of evidence in the case, even tending to prove any such agreement.

Steffen was engaged in the business of building and repairing boats and the libellants were employed by him from time to time to work by the day at whatever job he might have on hand. When he commenced to repair the City of Salem for the respondent, he put the libellants to work on her without any express agreement as to the wages or the payment of them. He was in the habit of paying them their wages each week. It does not appear, but it is no doubt but that it was understood betw'en him and the libellants that he would pay them the customary wages.

But it is argued that because the libellants or some of them testified that when they went to work on the boat they trusted Steffen and expected him to pay them as they labored, and did not think of resorting to the boat for their wages until the contractor failed, that therefore they trusted Steffen exclusively and waived their lien on the boat.

But this position is clearly untenable. The contractor is personally res ponsible to his workmen for their wages independent of the lien. This is true in all cases of their employment. Therefore they had a right to look to him for payment—to trust him to perform his obligation, without losing the least incentive to their lien. The lien is given by the law in addition to the personal liability of the contractor, and as a security therefor. The Nestor, 1 Sum., 78.

It operates and takes effect in favor of the workman without any thought or action on his part, other than the due performance of his contract. Therefore it is not found in any way to assert the intention to claim or rely upon the lien. The law takes care of him in this respect, even if he is unaware of its existence; and he can only be deprived of this security by an express agreement to waive or relinquish it, or by some affirmative act, from which such an agreement may be reasonably inferred. That is, an agreement with the contractor to trust him exclusively—to look to him alone for the payment of the wages and therefore not the vessel would prevent the lien from attaching. The Nestor, 1 Sum., 75.

There must be a decree for each of the libellants for his wages as carpenter at the rate of $4 per day as follows—Charles Nelson, 48 days; $192; Peter Johnson, 22 days, $88; and, Jones Carlson, 29 days, $116—In all, $396, with legal interest since February 1, and costs and expenses of suit.

Daniel Goodell, for the libellants.
William H. Effinger, for the respondents.

THE CITY OF SALEM—Charles Brown libellant. No. 1186.

This suit is brought to enforce a lien for wages as a laborer upon said boat for 24 days at $2 50 per day. It was heard and submitted with the foregoing case. There will be a decree for the libellant for $60 with interest and costs.

UMATILLA COUNTY NEWS

IRREGULAR CORRESPONDENCE OF THE OREGONIAN.]

WESTON, March 28.

The spring weather, which has been rather backward this season, now allows plowing and sowing. The farmers are busy, and the average crop which is sown this year will be much larger than during any previous season.

A concert was given here by the members of the Weston Musical Glee club. It proved a financial success, and was a very satisfactory amateur performance.

The Umatilla democratic county convention convenes at Pendleton on the 29th inst. There are a large number of candidates in the field. The republican convention will be held at the same place on the 18th proximo.

The farmers in the vicinity of Milton have been troubled a great deal of late by raids upon their cattle and stock, and have formed a vigilant association, who are to see that any offender who can be captured is properly prosecuted. Several men are now being tried at Milton before Judge Talbot who are charged with stealing cattle.

Wind is blowing from the southeast, and light showers are expected.

DEATH OF ABRAHAM McCUBBIN.

KINGSLEY, Ogn., March 28.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

One by one the first settlers of our state are passing away. Death has claimed another victim in the person of Abraham McCubbin, who departed this life on the 13th of March, after an illness of some three months, at his home in Wapinitia, Wasco county. Mr. McCubbin was born in Kentucky in the year 1817. He came across the plains from Missouri, and settled in Clackamas county in 1852. From thence he moved east of the Cascades to his late residence in 1870. Mr. McCubbin was a good man in the highest and best sense of that term. While yet a young man he made a profession of christianity, and joined himself to the Baptist denomination. All who knew him will bear witness how conformable his life was with his profession. A man of singular uprightness and honesty, of quiet unobtrusive piety, of strong convictions and attachments, of unswerving devotedness to truth and righteousness, he possessed the esteem and confidence of all who knew him. He leaves a wife, one son and three married daughters. G.

THURSDAY EVENING, March 30.

Spring work may now be fairly said to be under way in the various valleys tributary to Portland both east and west of the Cascade mountains. It has been delayed later than usual in the Willamette valley by reason of prolonged rains, and east of the Cascades by frost and snow. As no early period nothing can be inferred as to the prospects of the coming crop, but it is safe to assume that the acreage will be in excess of last year's cultivated lands, and with a reasonable autumn our export surplus may reach 275,000 tons. By the close of this season's shipments we shall have exported something less than 260,000 tons in wheat and flour, which is inclusive of some 25,000 tons brought over from the previous season; but the quantity remaining in the country this spring after the above has been shipped will be reduced to nominally nothing, and we will go into the new season bare of stock on hand.

The number of ships directed this way and reasonably due in the next sixty to ninety days are much more than are necessary to move the remaining stocks on hand in the country, and, in consequence, several ships pointed toward the Columbia river have been diverted to other ports, and others must be sent away. Freights, therefore, except for immediate shipments are dull and nominal, and sympathize with a like feeling in Bar Francisco, where the tendency is again downward. We do not hear of any engagements for next season's shipments. There seems to be a wide variance in the views of shipowners and exporters as to what should be paid, and it is at any rate much too early to come to any reliable conclusion about the requirements or value of freights so far ahead.

Within the last month most of the accumulated grain in the warehouses throughout the state held by farmers and speculators have been sold at prices ranging from $1 81½ to $1 85, and but little at the present writing remains on hand unsold. These purchases were made by exporters and millers and what remains on hand in the interior is mostly held by the farmers at their home granaries and is not more than sufficient to answer the local requirements. It is thought all the principal mills are well stocked and the market cannot fairly be quoted at present writing at above $1 62½ per cental.

The loss of the Junction mills by fire last week is to be regretted. The proprietors were energetic and had succeeded in establishing a record for their flour both at home and abroad. It is as yet not known whether they will rebuild.

The movement from this time forward will not be of sufficient consequence as to excite much comment, and the number of ships that will be laid here after those are loaded now in port will be inconsiderable until the new crop year commences.

THE ENGLISH GRAIN MARKET.

The Mark Lane Express in its review of the British grain trade for the past week says: There has been a short spell of wintry weather. Crops continue to look well. Provincial markets are sparingly supplied with English wheat, and finest samples are generally 60s@1s higher. Foreign wheat closed heavy but quiet. Foreign flour cheaper. The quantity of wheat is continually increasing, although a large proportion of American flour is not very saleable and tends to clog the market. Maize more difficult of sale, although nominally 3s 3d for mixed American. Weather and crops very quiet. Red winter declined 1. Few cargoes arrived, sold, and withdrawn. Five old cargoes and 2 freight cargoes remain. Trade in flour and corn unmoved. Sale—English wheat 30,722 quarters at 43s 5d per quarter. Imported 21,0 quarters at 43s 10d for the corn ending last Saturday.

Portland Produce Market.

Stocks of flour are ample. The demand is fair. Oats are steadied at the prices quoted for home consumption only. Shippers cannot pay quotations and realize a profit. Hay is quiet. Mill feed is very scarce and liable to advance. Choice Oregon hams, bacon and shoulders are in good demand and firm at quotations. Lard in fair request and wanted. Dried fruits show no signs of improvement. Stocks of hand are still large. Hides are firm. Butter is lower owing to a decline in the San Francisco market. Cheese are a drug in the market, selling as low as 5c at retail. Eggs are in liberal supply and the price is not likely to advance. Cheese of good quality is scarce. Choice apples are scarce and in good demand. Chickens are scarce and wanted at quotations. Salmon in fair receipts. Potatoes have declined owing to heavy receipts in the California market. Should the supply from Oregon continue as high as for the past four weeks we see no chance for recovery. The demand for shingles is increasing as the building season commences, and the price is firm.

King of the Blood.

Is not a "cure-all;" it is a blood-purifier and strengthener of blood poisons the system, destroys the life of the circulation, and thus lays the foundation for many diseases known by different names, but originating from one cause, which King of the Blood counteracts, imparting health and vigor to the whole system. Especially does it cure all diseases of Blood [illegible] Scrofula, Consumption, Nervous Disorders, Headache, Pimples, Boils, General Weakness, Heart Disease, Dropsy, Kidney Disease, Piles, Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula, Skin Disorders, Pimples, Ulcers, Sore Eyes, &c., &c. KING of the BLOOD prevents and cures these by attacking the cause, impurity of the blood. Obsolete and physicians agree in calling it "the most genuine and efficient preparation for the purpose." Sold by Druggists. $1 per bottle. Send testimonials, circulars, &c., to pamphlets, "Treatise on Diseases of the Blood," wrapped around each bottle.

ALL CHRONIC & DIFFICULT DISEASES.

DR. BRENAN WILL GUARANTEE TO CURE every form of Disease of the genitative organs of private disease. He has become an expert in the treatment of diseases, resulting from self-abuse or indulgence of the sexual organs of both male and female, including diseases caused by the

FOLLIES OF YOUTH,

such as SPERMATORRHŒA, or SEMINAL WEAKNESS, or LOSS OF PERFECT VITALITY. Nearly every youth is addicted to the Secret Habit, which destroys the delicate organs of generation, and renders marriage improper or unhappy. Many a man has been led to believe himself incapable of sexual enjoyment, when in fact he is only the victim of a self-abuse in youth. Many a young man becomes alarmed at the terrible effects of early indiscretion, when he finds himself suddenly attacked with nocturnal emissions, dimness of sight, loss of muscular power, pimples on the face, aversion to society, and a dread of consumption. Many a man thinks he has a cold or cough, when in fact the seminal secretions are being discharged with the urine. Many a man wonders what has caused the change in his feelings toward the object of his once ardent affections, and wonders why the passion is not as strong as formerly. In all these cases a dull pain is felt in the head, the eyes become sunken, with blue rings around them, the back becomes weak, the kidneys get affected, and the whole system shows marked symptoms of debility, and if not relieved, consumption, epilepsy or insanity often follows. In fact, the whole physical system becomes deranged, and the mind is constantly dwelling on the cause of the trouble. Many a man who has been cured by DR. BRENAN, after having been given up by other physicians, has called to express his gratitude for the benefits received, and has recommended his friends to call on DR. BRENAN, feeling assured that he can cure them. Many a man who has been cured by DR.
